SAVATERRE

Founded by Keppell Smith in the late 1990s, Savaterre is one of Beechworth’s benchmark producers, crafting small-volume, site-driven wines from a high-altitude granite vineyard in Victoria’s Alpine foothills. The region’s warm days and cold nights, combined with ancient, mineral-rich soils, deliver intensity, precision and natural structure.

Working with a minimal-intervention, Burgundy-inspired philosophy, Smith employs wild ferments, extended lees ageing and carefully judged French oak to build layered, textural wines that speak clearly of place.

Produced in tiny quantities and rarely seen on release, the Savaterre Chardonnay has become one of Australia’s most tightly held Chardonnays highly allocated, fiercely collected, and often traded quietly between those in the know. Bottles are more often found in private cellars than on wine lists, with a reputation built as much on scarcity and word-of-mouth as critical acclaim.

Chardonnay

We list our Chardonnay from lightest to richest because it’s one of the most versatile and shape-shifting white wines in the world. Depending on where it’s grown and how it’s made, Chardonnay can sit anywhere from crisp and mineral, to creamy, textured, and deeply layered.

It’s not about saying one style is better than another, but about making it easier to find your preference. Even if it just helps narrow things down a little.
